A MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA (CHANCELLOR OF THE ORDER OF AUSTRALIA)

Every day, all around the country, there are ordinary Australians doing extraordinary things in their communities. The sum of these often selfless and generous actions enriches our society.

Honours and Awards recipients come from all walks of life and each had an indelible, remarkable impact in our community at the local, national or international level.

Each recipient has something else in common: someone took the time to nominate them. It doesn't matter who you are, where you are from or whether you are known to millions or just a few. If you have put others ahead of yourself and made a positive difference to the community, you can be nominated for an award and, if successful, recognised by a grateful nation.

Any Australian can nominate someone for an award. If you know of someone in your community who has made Australia a better place in which to live and work, I encourage you to consider nominating them. For details on how to nominate, visit www.gg.gov.au.

On behalf of all Australians, I congratulate and thank all recipients of honours and awards for their outstanding contribution to our nation. They are a source of inspiration to us all and have helped make Australia the great country that it is.

INTRODUCTION

The Order of Australia is the pre-eminent way Australians recognise achievements which benefit or bring honour to the Australian community. In the Australian honours system appointments to, and awards in, the Order of Australia confer recognition for outstanding achievement and service.

There are two divisions of the Order of Australia: General Division and the Military Division, with four levels of awards in each: Companion of the Order (AC), Officer of the Order (AO), Member of the Order (AM) and Medal of the Order (OAM).

The Monarch of Australia is Sovereign Head of the Order of Australia, and the Governor-General of Australia as Chancellor is charged with administration of the Order. The Governor-General appoints the Secretary of the Order, who has historically been the Official Secretary to the Governor-General. The Council for the Order of Australia is an independent body that consists of 19 members: the Chairperson, eight representatives of each state and territory, three public office holders (ex-officio) and seven community representatives.

The Order of Australia, instituted by Queen Elizabeth II on 14 February 1975, was established as “an Australian society of honour for the purpose of according recognition to Australian citizens and other persons for achievement or for meritorious service”.

The Order initially comprised of a Civil Division and a Military Division, with only three levels in each: Companion, Officer and Member. In 1976 Queen Elizabeth II, on the advice of the Prime Minister, changed the name of the Civil Division to General Division and added two further levels of award – a Knight and Dame in the General Division, each having equal status and ranking above the Companion; and a Medal of the Order in both the General Division and Military Division ranking below the Member. The Knight and Dame level was removed in 1986 and temporarily reinstated from 2014 to 2015.

Other changes to the governance of the Order of Australia have involved adjustments to the composition of the Council for the Order of Australia, which have included the expansion of community representation and the inclusion of an Australian Capital Territory representative upon self government; increases to the number of appointments that may be made in the General Division; and the making of ordinances to govern matters such as insignia design, investitures, and terminations and cancellations of appointments and awards.

As our pre-eminent means of recognising outstanding individuals, the Order of Australia should reflect the diversity of Australia. This relies on outstanding individuals being nominated regardless of their gender, cultural background or field of endeavour – you can help by nominating. An online form is available on the Governor-General's website, www.gg.gov.au.

Awards in both divisions of the Order of Australia are announced on Australia Day (January 26) and The King's Birthday (the second Monday in June). Occasionally awards are announced at other times, and honorary awards in both divisions are often announced on an ad hoc basis.

Upon publication of their award, recipients are entitled to have the appropriate post nominals placed after their names on all occasions when the use of such letters is customary.

General Division

Australian citizens, permanent residents and non-citizens are eligible to receive appointments and awards in the General Division of the Order of Australia. Nominations for Australian citizens and permanent residents may be made by any person or organisation to the Australian Honours and Awards Secretariat (the Secretariat) at Government House, Canberra.

All nominations of citizens and permanent residents are researched by the Secretariat before submission to the Council for the Order of Australia, which is a body established under the Constitution of the Order; and is representative of the Australian community. The Council meets twice yearly and considers all eligible nominations before making recommendations for appointments or awards to the Governor-General as Chancellor of the Order.

The Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet prepares nominations of non-citizens who are not permanent residents for the Prime Minister's consideration and recommendation to the Governor-General.

Criteria for the levels are as follows:

- Appointments as Companions (AC) shall be made for eminent achievement and merit of the highest degree in service to Australia or to humanity at large.
- Appointments as Officers (AO) shall be made for distinguished service of a high degree to Australia or to humanity at large.
- Appointments as Members (AM) may be made for service in a particular locality or field of activity or to a particular group.
- Awards of the Medal of the Order (OAM) may be made for service worthy of particular recognition.

Excluding honorary appointments, no more than 35 Companions, 140 Officers and 605 Members shall be appointed in any calendar year. There is no limitation on awards of the Medal of the Order.

Military Division

Members of the Australian Defence Force are eligible to receive appointments and awards in the Order of Australia in the Military Division for service in the defence forces. Members of the armed forces of other countries are also eligible for honorary awards in the Order of Australia in the Military Division.

Recommendations for appointments and awards in the Military Division are made to the Governor-General as Chancellor of the Order of Australia by the Minister for Defence.

Criteria for the levels are as follows:

- Appointments as Companions (AC) shall be made for eminent service in duties of great responsibility.
- Appointments as Officers (AO) shall be made for distinguished service in responsible positions.
- Appointments as Members (AM) may be made for exceptional service or performance of duty.
- Awards of the Medal of the Order (OAM) may be made for meritorious service or performance of duty.

In any calendar year, the number of appointments may not exceed one-tenth of one percent of the average number of persons who were members of the Defence Force on each day of the immediately preceding year.

INFORMATION ABOUT AWARDS

About the Australian honours system

The Australian honours system recognises the outstanding service and contributions of Australians.

Recipients come from across the country and from all walks of life. While some are well-known, the majority are unsung heroes. While typically they haven't sought thanks or recognition, they deserve both. The Australian honours system gives the nation a chance to celebrate and acknowledge those who work tirelessly to improve local communities and to make Australia a better place.

Collectively, they showcase the best attributes of Australians – as His Excellency General the Honourable David Hurley AC DSC (Retd) has said:

“Collectively, they speak to who we are as a nation. There are countless examples of selflessness, commitment and dedication. There is diversity and there are examples of exceptional achievement in almost every field imaginable.”

The broad groups of awards are meritorious, bravery and gallantry, long service and good conduct, operational service, and commemoration.

The Australian honours system is administered by the Australian Honours and Awards Secretariat which forms part of the Office of the Official Secretary to the Governor-General.

Responsibility for honours policy matters rests with the Honours and Symbols Branch of the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet.

History of the Australian honours system

The Australian honours system formally began on 14 February 1975 with the introduction of the Order of Australia, the Australian Bravery Decorations, and the National Medal.

The Order of Australia is a multi-level “society of honour”, recognising the merit of the service and achievements of its individual members. The Australian Bravery Decorations recognise individual or group acts of bravery. The National Medal is a long service and good conduct medal, awarded to members of recognised government and voluntary organisations which aid people and property in times of crisis.

Although the system formally began in 1975, uniquely Australian medals existed before then. Service during World War II by Australians was recognised through the Australia Service Medal 1939-45; and a Vietnam Medal was also established, in 1968.

Both medals were created within the British Imperial honours system then in use, but could only be awarded for service by members of Australian armed forces. Even after 1975, the Australian and British systems temporarily operated in parallel. Imperial honours were awarded less often as time went on, until 1992, when it was agreed with Queen Elizabeth II that Australian governments would no longer recommend such awards.

The Sovereign still establishes Australian awards through Letters Patent, exercising the Royal prerogative. However, in most cases the Governor-General approves recommendations for appointments or awards.

Since 1975, additional Australian awards have been established to enable the recognition of various types of service and achievements to continue while the British counterpart awards were phased out. The Australian honours system has developed to a point at which it is truly unique, and tailored to Australia's needs.

About Letters Patent, Regulations, Determinations, and Wearing

The Letters Patent approved by The Sovereign institutes the medal and ordains that the medal is governed by the Regulations Governing the Award. These Regulations, approved by The Sovereign, on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, set out the terms and conditions of an award, and states that the design, and manner of wearing, of the medal is determined by the Governor-General.

The Determination informs the design of the medal, its associated insignia, and that the order of wearing is in accordance with The Order of Wearing of Australian Honours and Awards and the manner of wearing is in accordance with the Guide to the Wearing of Insignia. This guide assists recipients on appropriate wearing, outlining the manner in which insignia are worn and wearing in regard to different types of dress. The design of the medal and associated insignia must be in accordance with the relevant technical specifications.

The placement of the medal is approved by The Sovereign, and The Order of Wearing of Australian Honours and Awards is the notification by the Governor-General of the positioning of all awards in the Australian honours system.

These instruments collectively inform the rules and conditions associated with the Order of Australia.

Frequently Asked Questions

How to nominate

Anyone can nominate someone for recognition within the Order of Australia.

To nominate an Australian citizen or permanent resident, complete an on-line Order of Australia nomination form, which will be submitted to the Australian Honours and Awards Secretariat. The nominations are then researched before being provided to the Council for the Order of Australia for consideration. Recommendations for appointments or awards are made to the Governor-General by the Council.

To nominate a non-Australian citizen (without permanent residency), contact the Department of the Prime Minister and Cabinet. The nominations are researched by the Department, and recommendations made to the Governor-General by the Prime Minister.

Permanent residents and non-Australian residents are considered for an honorary appointment or award. Approval of an honorary appointment or award may require permission from the person's home country.

Appointments in the Order of Australia are not made posthumously. However, a nomination will be considered if they were nominated while they were alive.

Order of wear

Each medal is worn and approved by The Sovereign in accordance with The Order of Wearing of Australian Honours and Awards.

Care of medals

To ensure medals remain in good condition it is important to care for them. Always try to handle medals and components with cotton gloves or avoid direct contact with hands and fingers, as they can transfer acid onto medal surfaces.

Only clean/polish your medal, miniature medal and lapel badge with the polishing cloth supplied, or a leather chamois cloth. We do not recommend the use of any liquids, chemicals, abrasives or commercial cleaning agents on any metal components.

It is recommended that after use all medal components are cleaned, buffed and placed back into the original presentation box and stored in a dry area. Additional silica gel sachets may also be placed in the box for insignia stored in humid or coastal areas.

Ordering replica and replacement insignia or additional items

Replica Insignia

Replica medals are available from medal dealers. They can be a good option for displaying medals, or wearing at events.

Replacement Insignia

When medals have been damaged, lost or stolen the recipient may request a replacement.

Additional Items

Other items such as lapel badges, miniatures, ribbons bars or rosettes may be purchased. Recipients may purchase up to six lapel badges in one year.

For recommendations of current medal dealers, or to purchase additional items, please call the Australian Honours and Awards Secretariat on (02) 6283 3604.

INSIGNIA DESIGN

The design for the insignia was conceived by Mr Stuart Devlin AO CMG in 1976.

Using the livery colours of the Commonwealth of Australia Coat of Arms – gold and royal blue – he translated an individual ball of wattle blossom into a simple convex golden disc with a rich texture of beads and radiating lines accentuating a ring of blue enamel representing the surrounding sea. The disc is surmounted by an enamelled Crown signifying the position of The Sovereign as Head of the Order. The blue and gold theme is continued in the ribbon.

Various insignia are illustrated in different styles. The actual pieces for the two Divisions of the Order are identical: to distinguish between the divisions, the ribbon for the military division has a narrow gold band on each edge. The style of mounting may vary according to the wishes of the recipient.
